REVIEW OF FOLEY MINES

The Old Management will resume Control and increase plant.

Mr. John L. Morrison, the well known mining journalist, has a very interesting sketch of the history of the Foley mines in a late issue of the Duluth Herald. The article is here published in part:—

The old Foley mine at Mine Centre, the pioneer of Rainy Lake mines, was sold the other day for $29,000. It was bid in by Joe Foley, the original owner backed by a syndicate of Michigan copper country men. It is proposed to enlarge the stamp mill, make other improvements, resume development work and again send consignments of gold bricks to Duluth.

To-day gold mining never was in better shape in the Lake of the Woods country tributary to Rat Portage. The Manitou Lake district has supplanted the Manitoba wheat farmers with Americans of means, energy and willingness to take risks. That is resulting in a great revival and activity. The Sturgeon Lake country, away in the wilderness north of Ignace, as a result of Yankee men of energy and cash, is promising great things. Island Falls and the Upper Seine River district are beginning to sit up and take notice once more.

On the Lower Seine, around Mine Centre, a number of properties were opened up and boomed by stock companies that never should have been touched. Recklessness, lack of experience, unsound methods of raising capital and lack of capital, caused failures that were as inexorable as harmful to the reputation of the district.

The Foley mine will certainly resume work in a very short time. When it does J. C. Foley will be in charge, backed and supported by some of the most successful business men and competent mining men in the copper country of Michigan.

But I will not deliver a lecture on "Rat Portage" I started out to tell something of the Foley mine and its ups and downs. It is a story of wonderful hardship, plucky successes, business entanglements, inexperienced capital, an English fleet, an American associate, bungling and foolishness, general bankruptcy, despair and then the sudden snatching of victory from defeat. It is a story that teaches a Duluth scoffed at the idea of gold existing in that country. One company of capitalists brought up from the east was so discouraged by the "knockers" that it never got nearer to the Foley mine than the Spalding hotel. The next time Mr. Foley put up at one hotel and left his capitalists at the other. By such strategy he got them through to Mine Centre. Eventually Rod A. Demme, of Detroit, took hold heavily with Mr. Foley, and several other Detroit men took a hand in the enterprise as well.

There was some great hustling done at the time, over great obstacles. The nearest railroad was at Tower, eighty-six miles from the mine. On one occasion it cost $35 to send out a telegram. There were no roads, no supply stores, no miners, even. All had to be hustled in by Foley, and often he was washed up by petty custom house officials, slothful agents and even the weather. A breakdown in machinery meant a delay of weeks.

Finally a 20-stamp mill was installed and started to pounding rock. When Mr. Foley brought the first gold bricks to Duluth everybody asked him from what mine in Colorado he brought them. He simply grinned and the next time he brought out, hallooed, he piled up the bricks, about $12,000 worth, on the counter in the St. Louis hotel.

In four months' time, beginning in March, 1897, Mr. Foley took $11,000 out of the mine with a 20-stamp mill.

Besides Detroit capital, Mr. Foley enlisted a crowd of New Yorkers. In August, 1898, as a result of an examination with their own expert, covering a month, and including most thorough tests, Messrs. Bristol & Cawthra, Toronto lawyers, bought an eighth interest from the New York crowd for $50,000 cash.

I saw the Foley mine the first time in the spring of 1897. At that time, Foley was in charge and doing great work. No three men employed by him could accomplish as much in a day. In early noon he was out with his men looking after the stamp mill. Next you might find him checking freight off a barge. Wood and timber contracts received personal attention and the books and office work were given their share of his personal supervision. Every day he went under ground, studied conditions, and kept close watch on the character of the ore brought down by the blasts. He visited with the miners, jollied them up, got their good will and secured more work at their hands (than even the mining captain could do). In fact Mr. Foley set a swift pace, and so enthralled his men that they cheerfully followed where many men have to be driven.

English company was confined to shaft No. 3, south of the north shaft. The shaft was sunk to the 200 foot level, and a crosscut made to the eastward for 324 feet. Only 20 feet front from the shaft on the Gem vein, the Bonanza vein, was cut with a width of 6 feet. Next came the Daisy vein, 8 feet wide, the Gilt Edge vein, 5 feet wide, and the Lucky Joe, 11 inches wide—an aggregate of 20 feet of vein width, with a backing or height of 200 feet between the crosscut and the surface. The veins are true fissures and outcrop on the surface for hundreds of feet. The backing of 200 feet, and 50 feet of drifting on each, gives a development of 30,000 tons of ore at the point. London reports gave assay values of $6.70, $7.30, $27.00 and $29.15, respectively, for these veins—an average of $30.25. Leaving out the Lucky Joe, the average is $13.86. The Lucky Joe runs from a foot to two and a half feet in width. It is very rich, and carries much free gold. It attracted much attention from every expert that ever reported on the Foley mine, and has given average assays as high as $1,000 a ton.

Shafts on Half a dozen other veins develop about 25,000 tons, giving a total of about 105,000 tons of ore in sight, and practically ready for stopping. Under Mr. Foley's former management, the ore went better than $10 a ton, and mining and milling can be done for $3 a ton and less, depending on the vein and ore.

Today conditions are very favorable for success. The Canadian Northern railway has a depot within six miles of the mine, and the distance between is covered by a good government road, with easy grades. There is a telegraph line, giving communication with the entire world. Men, mail, machinery and supplies can be laid down at the mine in days, where it formerly took weeks. Machinery and supplies can be had from 10 to 50 per cent less than in 1895.

WHO IS THIS?

A handsomely dressed young lady from Rat Portage, riding recently in a crowded street car in Winnipeg was fortunate enough to have seen, but when reaching her destination she noticed that the facing of her dress was unfastened. It was the work of a moment, but a very warm and trying moment, to stoop down and knot it secretly. When this was accomplished, her hat and veil readjusted, and her gloves once more carefully put on, it was time to signal the conductor. This she did, and after two vain attempts to rise looked around indignantly, to find the cause of her retarded movements. She saw a young man, who

THE MANITOU GOLD MINES

Active Development Work at the 20th Century.

President Blum, of the 20th Century Company, came in from the mine to Wahgigon on Wednesday evening last. Mr. Blum called at the Star office and gave fuller particulars regarding the rich strike of ore referred to in the last issue.

The strike mentioned is a blind vein, being a body of ore which first made its appearance in the shaft at a depth of 120 feet and which grew wider as the shaft was sunk deeper.

The north crosscut upon the second level shows this blind vein to be about 12 feet wide, not seven as stated; it is a fine quality of quartz, highly mineralized and shows free gold in the panings.

In addition to this new discovery the south crosscut upon the second level shows vein No. 3 to be 16 feet wide, well mineralized and pans gold the same as on the first level. Vein No. 2, which shows to be over 20 feet wide on the first level, is now being pierced on the north crosscut of the second level. Its size cannot be told, as the north wall has not been reached.

Work in the mine is proceeding day and night. The preparation of the mill site for the 20-stamp mill, which was delivered at the mine the past winter, sawing of lumber and framing of mill is being rapidly pushed, and there is no doubt the Twentieth Century will soon be among the gold producing mines of the Manitou district. —Wahgigon Star.

reads like a romance. It is a story of wonderful hustling, pleasing successes, business entanglements, inexperience supplanting experience, inadequate capital, an English tradition, treacherous associates, bungling and foolish management, bankruptcy, despair and then the sudden snatching of victory from defeat. It is a story that teaches a lesson to every man in mining. It is a story that should teach the wisdom of never giving up and the folly of throwing up your hands and quitting until mind and muscle refuse to respond. It is a story that should encourage and inspire every young man just starting in life or engaging in some enterprise.

Duluth people well remember when Joe Foley quit the iron business on the Minnesota ranges, went to Rainy lake, bought the undeveloped prospect for $20,000, made a payment out of his modest savings and then commenced development work at the mine and hustling for capital in the East.

That was in the fall of 1890. The property comprised 191 acres and was located in the spring of 1891 by Thomas Wiegand. The property shows over thirty veins. At least seven of these are highly free milling and closely parallel.

Mr. Foley had to interest capital.

Dark days came late in the summer of 1897. In organizing the Foley mines company no provision had been made for working capital. Interests were divided and subdivided with capitalists until Mr. Foley lost control.

In addition to the 20-stamp mill which now will be increased to 10 stamps, there was a 12-drill air com-pressor plant, five steam hoists, one with a capacity to a depth of 1,000 feet, a 1,000-foot tramway, teams, wagons, steamboat, barges, sawmill, tools, machine shop, assay office and splendid camp buildings.

In the meantime Mr. Deane, Foley's trusted associate, went to London to secure British capital. After two years' time, the mine was taken over by the Canadian Mines Development company, Ltd. Debts in the sum of $53,000 were paid up and assurances given that working capital to the extent of $125,000 was in the treasury.
The mine was started up in 1898.
Development work prosecuted a few months and then permanently shut down with a legitimate indebtedness of probably $7500 unsatisfied.

The English underwriters had failed and, after some wrangling among the directors, an assignment was made to the liquidator of the old Foley Mines company. The liquidator, in turn, was about to sell the entire property for $15,000 on what seemed too short and insufficient notice; but vigorous protests secured a postponement of forty days at the hands of a just judge.

The new owners of the Foley mine secured for a song holdings representing close to $200,000 cash expended.
The machinery alone cost $10,000. The English company expended $80,000, and opened up new and profitable ground. In addition to the mine proper and its plant are 28 undeveloped properties distributed throughout the several districts.

Most of the development work done by Foley and then Mr. Strong was on the north shaft, on the Bonanza vein, 4,200 feet from the stamp mill, on the shore of Shoal lake. A crosscut pierced the Jumbo vein 105 feet from the shaft. That vein, where tapped, had a width of six feet, assayed from $5 to $11 a ton, developing 50,000 tons of low grade ore. The Jumbo vein has a continuous outcrop of 1,000 feet.

"BABY'S BIRTHRIGHT."

Is Health and Happiness—How Mothers Can Keep Their Little Ones Well.

Health is birthright of all little ones.
It is a mother's duty to see that her baby enjoys it. Mother's greatest aid in guarding children's health is Baby's Own Tablets—a medicine which can be given with perfect safety to the youngfered greatly from sore mouth and bad stomach. Several doctors prescribed for her, but nothing seemed to benefit her in the least till I began giving her Baby's Own Tablets, and in a short time my little one was fully restored to health. I would not be without the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to use them when their children are ailing."

Baby's Own Tablets are used in thousands of homes in Canada and always with beneficial results. They contain absolutely no opiate or other harmful drug; are mild, but sure in their action and pleasant to take. The very best medicine for all troubles of the stomach and bowels, colic, indiges-

MEN, DO YOUR DUTY.

The Board of Health should put on their war-paint now that hot weather is upon us, and get after those responsible for the numerous pools of stagnant water and make them take steps for immediate drainage, outside of the fact altogether that we are still posing as a summer resort, and that it is every citizen's duty to see that his own property is looking its best; there is the important question of the public health. An old man barred that has lain dry all winter, and is now filled with water is capable of breeding thousands of mosquitos—a stagnant pool that the sun shines on and raises to the right temperature, hatches out millions of mosquitos that lay in the dormant chrysalis state all winter, and every one of these quickened pests carries around the subtle virus which causes malaria. This is a dangerous disease, not only by perhaps, but because, it not only ruins the system and leaves it an easy prey to other more deadly maladies.

Five cents worth of quicklime dropped into the old iron barrel after it is filled for the first time with water, will settle the mosquito's career, and after draining a pool, a little powdered lime scattered over the part that was covered by water, will sterilize it. The man who wishes to preserve good health in his family will not think twice about the little trouble involved in the proposition above, when it is remembered that so much is at stake, neither will any good citizen hesitate when he realizes that the health, and perhaps ultimately the life of his beloved one depends on the citizen doing his plain duty.

UNKNOWN TO US ALL.

The people of Rainy River South have evidently been crying for bread and they have been promised a bridge. If we are to believe Miss Spruille, who says the greatest distress prevails in some districts. According to a down east exchange:

"Miss Spruille has found in some parts of the Rainy River portion of her parish a grand deal of destitution. Settling coming into here with little funds, some of them in debt, and with a home to build, implements and seed to buy, and a family to support, have suffered greatly. Two years ago she visited a series of small settlements. The water was coming on, the houses were more huddled and the floors of many writing it, and he says it is posted on the 2nd. It appears fourteen days late in the Times, but he doesn't see it of course, although we have the felicity of reading it in Rat Portage. The Pinewood man won't see until "the week after next—sometimes." That last word suggests the triumph of a pathetic faith over a subtle, cancerous despair. His faith prompts him to state that he will see the paper the week after next, then torturing doubt begins to twine its clammy coils about his heart, he feels a sinking sensation, and his faith is put to a severe test. It resists the strain however, and hope suggests that if he does not get the paper the week after next, he will most likely get it "some-time" after that date.

An arrangement such as this must have a brighter side though, for suppose the editor of the paper drew on the Pinewood man at sight for his subscription? The sight draft would arrive sometime after fourteen days, and if accepted and posted back would perhaps reach the point from which it started about fourteen days later—sometimes, but by the time the editor had mailed back his acknowledgement of the subscriber's promptness, and the Pinewood man had received it and written to the editor to discontinue the paper, as he did not wish to advance any further in the study of ancient history, and the editor had again written to say that the name had according been thrown into the helterbox on account of a rush of job work, the Pinewood man would pretty nearly owe for another year.

Truly the Rainy River mail service is a pitious state.

DELAYED BY A WEDDING.

Ceremony Was Performed on the Train—Bridegroom Waited for Girl to Grow.

Pressed for time and impatient to wed the bride for whom he had looked in vain for ten long years, Charles M. Woodworth, a mining lawyer, specialist of Dawson, was married yesterday at Calgary, Alberta, to Miss Beatrice Start of that city. An exceedingly romantic history surrounded the wedding in addition to the unique fact of its having been performed on board of a Pullman coach while the train waited for the hurried ceremony to be concluded.

More than a decade ago, when Woodworth was a youth in Nova Scotia, he started on a cross-country tramp. One exceedingly hot day, he slipped at a farm house for refreshments and his wants were supplied by an exceedingly pretty little girl of ten years. The young man, flattered with her so long as possible, and after years never forgot the incident.

Two years ago he tried to find the girl, but the family had moved, no one knew whither. Coming from Dawson two months ago Woodworth met the young woman on the train and they speedily became engaged, but she refused to accompany him north, and the wedding he desired was postponed indefinitely. Thence Woodworth went to Edmonton to transact some business, and being

TO THE ELECTORS.

To the Electors of the Constituency of Fort William, and Lake of the Woods:

Gentlemen—I beg to solicit your vote and influence in my behalf at the approaching general election rendered necessary by the recent dissolution of the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

Though a Conservative, I have never been an extreme-party man, and feel that on many questions I may lay claim to the support of all fair minded men who put principal in the leading place and party in the second. I do not pretend to justify or defend all that has heretofore been said and done in the name of Conservatism; but, in spite of blemishes in its history, I believe that the Conservative party has done much for Canada and for Ontario in the past, and is capable of doing much in the future which will rebound to the benefit of the country, and the credit of the party.

As regards the present Government of Ontario, between its mal-administration and its non-administration there is much for the elector to condemn and much to deplore.

The inability or unwillingness of the present Reform Government to amend the School Law and bring it abreast of the times, stamps the said Government as unfit longer to retain the reins of power. The Conservative party, if successful at the polls, will in all earnestness and with full conviction of the importance and gravity of the subject, at once make determined efforts to bring this great question to a satisfactory and successful issue, by correcting abuses, and modernizing the whole system of education.

The scandalous mal-administration of the Liquor Laws of the province, in our district at least, merits the condemnation of all right thinking people; and it is idle to suppose that after conniving at infractions of the present liquor law, the government would lift a finger to enforce the new prohibitory act. The much talked of Referendum—a word, which by the way, has no place in any of Mr. Ross' dictionaries or textbooks—is the temporary refuge of a cowardly and insincere government. By holding forth Prohibition as a bait in one hand—and in snatching it back with the other by means of the Referendum—the province has been insulted and stultified by the government, and the latter should by this reason be handsomely dealt with by the electorate.

Such important questions as the best means of developing New Ontario and how the Ontario Government can best assist us in so doing; the ample encouragement of our Agricultural, Mining and Fishing Industries; the preservation from waste and destruction of such timber limits as are still left to us, as well as the taking of adequate measures to replace our now been made in the past demands that even wider views must prevail in the future. If elected, I shall at all times strenuously advocate an enlightened, liberal and progressive policy in regard to the development of our mines, the establishment of pulp and paper mills, the improvement of our waterways and the broadest and most generous encouragement to the agriculturist and settler particularly along the lines of easy acquisition of title, and the opening of good roads throughout the constituency.

The matter of education in a new country like this is one of great importance and should be dealt with in a generous manner and this view I shall consider it my duty to persistently press upon the government at Toronto as well the matter of increased hospital accommodation throughout the north-west portion of the province.

It shall be my aim to meet you all before the date of the election and discuss fully these matters deemed important to the constituency and the province at large.

In the meantime I respectfully submit these views for your consideration and in the event of their meeting with your approval I ask you to support me by your vote and influence.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
D. C. CAMERON.

Severely Afflicted With Kidney Disease.

Stone in the Bladder, Incontinence and Pain in the Back—another Remarkable Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Wm. Hoynes of 10 McGee street, Toronto, says:—"I was afflicted severely with kidney disease, stone in the bladder, incontinence, deposits in the urine, severe pains in the back, and strains over the loins. I was so bad that I had to get up two or three times in the night and could then only make water with great pain."

"Though long a sufferer and unable to work, I was confined to my bed for three weeks, and during that time thought I could not possibly endure greater misery. It was then that I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is with gratitude that I say that they have freed me of all these symptoms, and made me a well man. I would not think of being without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in my house, and can also recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as very superior medicines."

In every town, village and township in Canada just such cures are daily being brought about by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is not an experiment, but a fact, that these pills have stood the test, and are a dose, 25¢ a box, at all dealers, or 14 Madison Street & Co., Toronto.

A Hospital Calendar.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid Society have initiated a scheme called the Calendar Scheme, whereby they desire to materially aid in the erection of a wing to the Jubilee Hospital, Rat Portage. This Calendar Scheme, if properly carried out, ought to realize over $1,000 for the Hospital.

OUTLINE OF SCHEME.—The head of the scheme shall be known as the Year, who shall pay to the Calendar Fund the sum of $2.00. The Year shall appoint thirteen persons, who shall be known as Months, who shall pay to the Year a fee of $1.00 each. The Year, handing over these fees to the Treasurer to be placed by her to the credit of the Calendar Fund. Each of the thirteen Months shall appoint four persons to be known as Weeks; each Week shall pay as soon as convenient to the Month who appointed her a fee of 50¢, and each Month shall forward the same to the Treasurer. Each one of the fifty-two Weeks shall appoint several persons to be known as Days, 365 Days in all. Each Day will pay to the Week who appointed her a fee of 25¢, and the Week shall forward the same to the Treasurer. Each of the Days shall endeavor to collect the sum of $2.00—that is, an average of 10¢ from twenty-four hours. When a Day has completed her collection she shall hand the amount to the week who appointed her who shall forward the same to the Treasurer. If the scheme is fully carried out the result should be as follows:

Fees from one Year	$	2.00
Fees from 13 Months		13.00
Fees from 52 Weeks		52.00
Fees from 264 Days		65.00
Fees from 8,736 Hours		873.00

MISTRESS
PRUE

...BY M. L. AVARY

Copyright, 1901, by M. L. Avary

The expressman lugged in a great bundle of burlap. The girls cut it open, and out tumbled boughs of mountain laurel, plumes of pine and hemlock and gay bunches of bittersweet berries.

"Ah, how it smells of the woods at home!" cried Anne, her face bright with smiles and tears.

The little brothers and sisters in the New England village where she lived before she came to make her living as a stenographer in New York had gathered it.

"Ole Virginny nebber fire!" shouted Margaret as the expressman lumbered in again, bearing a big box.

It was crammed with holly, running cedar—"greenwood hicc," Margaret called it—and mistletoe.

"Oh, I love to touch it! Mamma's dear hands put it in!" And Margaret sighed.

"The mistletoe hung in the castle hall.
The holly branch stood on the old oak wall, and the holly and the holly were blithe and gay, Keeping their Christmas holiday.
Oh, the mistletoe bough! Oh, the mistletoe bough!"

The girls had lots of fun decorating the house from top to bottom.

They made their den a bower of green and scarlet. Then they festooned the doors of every boarder in the house.
Nobody was too old or new or glum or ugly to be thus prettily reminded that the merry girls up stairs, whose antics kept them awake o' nights and made them swear under and above their breath, were full of the spirit of good will to men. The landlady's apartment was invaded while she was in the kitchen seeing to it that meals went into the dining room properly. When she came up stairs tired and cross, lo! the smell of the forest and the glint of red berries greeted and soothed her.

The little sewing girl who had recently taken the room next to the den came timidly to the door to force her thanks.

"It makes me think of Santa Claus times," she said, with eyes suspiciously bright. "It was ever so nice for you to do it for a perfect stranger."

"Oh, but you aren't a stranger!" said jolly Margaret. "You are our nearest neighbor, you know. Come right in and have a cup of tea. We're just brewing."

So Prue sat down among them and listened while they talked away about the folks at home. She watched them doing up small packages in white tissue paper with red and green ribbons.

"These are blotted offerings," they said. "We were up till I last night tying up things. Hope we didn't disturb you. We do jigger so. It's such fun to make up the presents lots of crinkly paper and gay ribbons, you see, and not much else. We can't give anything that costs over 10 cents, so we have to make the magnificence of the parcel counterbalance the humility of the gift. It looks like a sin to send such trash, but it reminds kinkfolk and friends that we think lovingly of them. Besides, if folks didn't buy trash, what would become of the stores placed place in the den. She had found a niche.

Margaret and Anne came back from the mission in a flutter.

"Mr. Ashburton brought a new preacher home with him tonight. He talks so quietly you would not call him eloquent, and yet he holds us all spellbound. The Bowery toughs were like lamb. He is from the west, Mr. Ashburton says, and he has been recently ordained. A great sorrow drove him into the ministry. He used to be rather wild, and one night over a game of cards he came near killing a man, so near that he thought he had killed him.
His friends thought so, too, and got him out of the country before the vigi-lantes would find him. When he recovered his senses, he was coming back to give himself up, but he got a letter from his sweetheart begging him not to and telling him it would kill her if he did. So he went off to Africa, India or somewhere else and roamed around, shooting elephants and things. After while he came home and tried to get himself arrested, but failed because the man he thought he killed is very much alive and doesn't want any case made out. His sweetheart had disappeared. She had no family and had gone away soon after he did. All his efforts to trace her have been unavailing. Think of going around for years burdened with the belief that you had killed somebody!"

Margaret looked to Prue for exclamations, but Prue had fainted. Perhaps she had not had enough to eat of late. Her appetite was poor, and dancples were out of the question.

They got her to bed and watched over her till she seemed to be asleep.
Next morning they were off betimes to work. At 6 Margaret went home to look after Prue, and Anne to the mission to help the deaconess with the mothers' meeting. When Anne came back, she brought the curate and his friend up stairs for a cup of tea.

Margaret and Prue were talking softly together when they looked up and saw the guests in the doorway. Prue's face was transfigured, the face of one whose dead had come to life.

"Oh, Prue, my darling!" the newcomer cried.

And then Prue, who had nobody to love or to love her, was clasped in her lover's arms.

"There's always luck in the mistletoe I hang," said Margaret next night, standing on the ladder chair and taking down the faded greens, and the girls heard her singing:

"Your love came true, sweet Mistress Prue, There's luck, I know, in my mistletoe."

He Knew His Own.

One of the old time southern negroes went to Boston to make his fortune.
After a week of walking up and down he found himself penniless and no work in sight. Then he went from house to house.

"Ef yo please, sah," he began when his ring at the front doorbell was answered, "can't yo gib a poor culled man wuk ter do or sompin ter eat?"

And the polite answer invariably was, "No, mister; very sorry, but have nothing for you."

All who answered his ring addressed him as "Mr.," but finally shut their doors and heels against him. Finally he rang the bell at a brownstone front.
A gentleman appeared, and the old negro said, "Haw, I is starvin'." "Can't

HON. DAVID WARK.

Oldest Member of Any Parliament in the British Empire; New Brunswick Senator; Has Done Good Work.

The oldest member of any Parliament in the British Empire, and probably the oldest representative in any of the national assemblies of the world, is the Hon. David Wark of Fredericton, New Brunswick, who has just attained upon the ninety-fourth year of his useful career, writes the Ottawa correspondent of The Montreal Witness. Fifty-seven years ago he was chosen member for the County of Kent in the New Brunswick Legislature. After playing an active part in that body at Confederation, he was raised to the Canadian Senate, which he has attended without interruption since 1867. Mr. Wark's life has been one of value to his country. In one sense he may be termed the father of the Canadian Confederation, since it was the results drawn from legislation of his framing that convinced the colonies in favor of union.
On his initial year there was adopted twenty years before the union a free interchange of communications between Britain's sister colonies on the northern half of this continent. The advantages of this broad-minded step were made plain to all, and gradually there came a conviction that, instead of rivalry the position of all would be strengthened before the world by a joining of interests.

A marvellous monument of the results of regular habits and temperate living is the life of this man. At this age he is as clear of mind and as vigorous of frame as most men twenty years. His junior. There is nothing that would offend him more than an offer of support. Sturdy and dependable has been a leading characteristic of his whole life. The very messenger who stepped forward to help him on with his coat would be waved back. The fire of the born reformer still shines in his eye. His last address in the Senate was a complaint that there was not given that branch of the Legislature more to do. Three-quarters of a century on Canadian soil has not clouded his love for Ireland, the land of his birth.

Mr. Wark's longevity comes of no practice. He has taken regular exercise and refrained from too vigilance and indulgence in table delectables.
For years he has eaten but two meals a day—breakfast and training. In this, as well as all else, he has adhered to regularity.

Senator Wark was one of the first public men in this section of the empire to identify himself with the Imperial Federation movement. He is in favor of any policy that would strengthen the bond between the motherland and her colonies. He would vote tomorrow for international free trade.

He has long advocated the improvement of Canada's trade relations with the United States. The breadth of view which prompted his first public act of consequence—the adoption of free-trade between the units of British North America has been apparent in almost every speech he made. He would live to see Confederation rounded off by the inclusion of Newfoundland in Parliament. This wonderful old man has consistently supported every movement that was directed to elevate the people's morals.

In a letter written by his own hand the other day Senator Wark announces that he will probably be up to Ottawa for a portion of the session.

The guests are gone the smile slips from the face of the hostess and she gives up to the pain which racks her body. Mana woman entertains and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerve quivers with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief to women would be worth a trial under such conditions. But when the woman's medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is offered with the proof of efficacy in thousands of well attested cures, what excuse can then be offered for suffering longer?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the benefit my mother has received from your Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery," says Maria E. Johnson of Westbury, N.Y. "She suffered much nervous with uterine disease and nervousness and had a constant ringing and tingling noise in her head. After taking six bottles of Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery she was entirely cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate

A Wooden Statue In Tokyo.

In Tokyo, the capital of Japan, there exists a gigantic statue of a woman made of wood and plaster and dedicated to Hachiman, the god of war. In height it measures fifty-four feet. The head alone, which is reached by a winding stairway in the interior of the figure, is large enough to comfortably hold twenty persons. The figure holds a huge wooden sword in one hand, the blade of the weapon being twenty-seven feet long, and a ball twelve feet in diameter in the other.

Internally the figure is fitted up with an extraordinary anatomical arrangement, supposed to represent the different portions of the brain. A fine view of the country is obtained by looking through one of the eyes of the statue.

Training Youngsters to Sling Stones.

It has been said that Asiatic nations excelled others in the use of the sling, and the slingers of an ancient army used their little weapons with terrible effect. "These natives have such skill," says one old historian, "that it very rarely happens that they miss their aim. What makes them so great in the use of the sling is the training given them from their earliest years by their mothers, who set up a piece of bread hung at the end of a rod for a target and let their children remain without food until they have hit it.
When the child who is the victor receives the bread as the reward of his skill and patience."

Not the Professor.

When in 1833 Professor Freeman was examining Battle sh'ry, he found himself dogged by a person who, as he thought, somewhat officiously obtruded his offers of assistance.

After vainly trying to shake him off he broke forth with: "I don't want your assistance. The Duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the ganieners."

"Exactly so," was the reply. "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the Duke of Cleveland."

For long advocated the improvement of Canada's trade relations
breadth of view which prompted his first public act of consequence—the adoption of free trade between the units of British North America —has been apparent in almost every speech he made. He would like to see confederation extended to the protection of Newfoundland. In Parliament this wonderful old man has consistently supported every movement that was calculated to elevate the people's morals.
In a letter written by his own hand
the other day Senator Wark an-
to Ottawa for a portion of the session.

A Harry Furness Story.

I was at my hotel in Ottawa, the morning after I appeared at the Opera House in the "Humors of Parliament." An eminent Canadian divine was ushered into my quarters, and addressing me, said:

"Allow me to introduce myself, and to say that I listened with the greatest pleasure and profit to your most admirable discourse last evening."

I bowed my very best.

"I must say," continued the reverend gentleman, "that your efforts in the cause of Christianity in this city are marked by a fervor and earnestness that cannot fail to convert."

"Really," I said, "you flatter me."

"Ah, no, sir, you are one of the brave soldiers of Christianity," who march through the world addressing lower audiences and influencing the masses, taking life seriously, and renouncing frivolity and worldliness."

"Well," I said, "I don't think, I do any harm, but I must disclaim for my poor efforts to amuse."

"Amuse, sir," repeated the astonished divine. "Surely I am speaking to the gentleman whose striking discourse it was my good fortune to listen to last evening in Hamilton Church?"

"No, sir, I was in the Grand Opera House."

"Then you are not Dr. Munkall, the revivalist?"

"Pardon me, no, sir. I am Furness, the caricaturist."

"Good gracious where's the door?" Let me out! They have brought me to the wrong room!"—From "The Confessions of a Caricaturist."

In Hamilton Society.

A Hamilton clergyman married a couple in his church the other day.
The carriages spread the bridal carpet for the wedding party, and the other necessary things to make the affair distinguished. After it was all over and the young couple were leaving the groom handed out envelopes to both the clergyman and caretaker. Later the clergyman said to the caretaker: "What did you get in your envelope?" And the caretaker opened the envelope and discovered a sheet of paper on which was written: "Thanks. And to the clergyman the caretaker said:
"What did you get?" Whereupon the man of God drew forth a similar document, and nothing more.
When the young couple return from their wedding trip they will hear from both caretaker and clergyman.—Hamilton Spectator.

Local Interest

Mr. Chas. Brant, M. E., has been appointed resident agent for the Rand Mill Co., and has an office opposite the Miner Co. on Main Street.

Mrs. McLean will hold her pupils' recital in the Opera House on Friday, May 2nd. The programme in preparation for this event is an excellent one, better indeed than that given some time ago when a crowded house gave his talented lady and her clever pupils such an enthusiastic reception. In a future issue the details of the coming entertainment will be given.

The Dorena Society of the Swedish Lutheran Church will hold a sale of useful and fancy articles in the church on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, all are welcome.

Mr. J. B. Davies, of the Winnipeg Free Press, is in town visiting his family before leaving on an extensive trip through the west.

Mr. Hilliard has nearly recovered from his attack of rheumatism, which kept him confined to his room for several days.

Mr. N. S. McMillan, director of the Black Eagle Mining Company, arrived in town today.

Mr. R. and Thompson is the pioneer tourist to land on Coney Island this time.

News was received in town today of the death of R. G. Proudlock, of Minneapolis. By a good bye. Deceased is younger brother of Mr. H. Proudlock, the mining contractor, and T. W. Proudlock, who now at Gold Rock.

Mr. Hugh Armstrong, M.P.P., has arrived from his trip to Fort William.

Mr. Symmes is here on a visit to his sister, Mrs. W. A. Ferguson.

The News last night asked the question: "Isn't it about time the water-gate was making its appearance?" It is evidently a question of the fact that it made its appearance last week.

G. Grisham, of the firm of McQuarrie & Grisham, Rainy River, arrived last night in company with her young nephew and left on the train for her home in the east.

On the evening of Thursday next, nomination day, a political meeting will be held in the Opera House, by Dr. Smellie and his supporters.

The Liberals have engaged the Hill and Opera House for two nights just before election day.

The haberdasheries will all close at noon on Saturday next, Victoria Day.

DRYDEN DOINGS.

One of the most successful political meetings ever held in Dryden took place Saturday evening in the interest of Dr. Smellie, the popular Conservative candidate. Dr. Blair made an excellent and impartial chairman. Mr. T. R. Ferguson opened the meeting with a few remarks complimentary of our town and district, and showed conclusively that the cry that Mr. Ferguson was a "local" man was unfounded. Mr. McKenzie, representing Mr. Cameron, was then allowed 30 minutes. The first 20 minutes of his address was taken up with personal criticism of Dr. Smellie. He termed him a budding politician, etc., and in every possible regard greatly inferior to Mr. Cameron. The balance of Mr. McKenzie's time was taken up in an endeavor to show what the Ross platform was and in alleged statements of what the Whitney platform was, but which in reality was a platform formulated by Mr. McKenzie himself to suit his own purposes.

Mr. Ferguson replied in a speech of over an hour and in his refutation of Mr. McKenzie's remarks he must have made that gentleman feel uncomfortable. Mr. Ferguson said he felt sorry that the former speaker had resorted to personal abuse of Dr. Smellie. He then criticized the actions of the late government, and gave an outline of the progressive legislation to be inaugurated by the Whitney government after the elections on the 29th. The speech was a clear and incisive one, and was received with approval by the majority of those present. The local Liberals this morning feel crestfallen, for they believe that an overwhelming majority will be sent from Dryden.

Dr. E. Herbert Adams, Liberal, has withdrawn from the contest in North Toronto.

SPRING REGATTA.

The Boat Club races on Saturday resulted in McLelland's crew winning the local championship. Eight crews started as follows:

Beandro v. Schnarr, won by Schnarr; Hooper v. McKenzie, won by McKenzie; Burton v. Moran, won by Burton; McLelland v. Phillips, won by McLelland. Hooper rowed against Schnarr and defeated him, and McLelland passed into the semi-finals by beating Burton. McLelland and Hooper rowed off for the championship, the event resulting in a win out for McLelland.
